Mist Opportunities: A Stand-Alone Message

What is a false sense of security you tend to rely on? (money, wealth, status, experiences, grades, health, etc.)

When are you most tempted to give God a rain check? (As if to say you will give him your life later.)

What is something that happened in your life that was unexpected and you couldn't control?

How does total reliance on God give your life true stability?

How would your life look different if you were fully reliant on the eternal stability God provides?
